CLARK RULING BEFORE COURT ON JANUARY 21

Expect Early Decision on Whether or Not Prohibition Amendment is Invalid.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6. (AP)—The supreme court broke a speed record today to set January 21 for hearing of oral arguments on Judge Clark's decision holding the prohibition amendment invalid.

The court matched the record of the government in filing its appeal within two days after the decision was rendered.

In approximately one month after the widely published decision was made the controversy will pass into the hands of the highest tribunal for final decision.

Chief Justice Hughes, when the supreme court met today, announced the appeal would be taken up for argument on January 21 ahead of all other cases then awaiting presentation. This will enable the court to render its decision before the present term ends in June.

Postponement Was Sought.

Counsel for William H. Sprague and William J. Howey, whose indictment on charges of transportation and possession of 50 half barrels of beer resulted in Judge Clark's ruling, sought to have the argument postponed until April 15.

Solicitor General Thatcher had contended that the appeal presented no new questions and that the supreme court already had passed on the questions raised by Judge Clark's decision. He said the government was ready to argue the appeal as soon as the court could pick it up.

He urged a prompt decision by the supreme court because it will have nation-wide effect.

RECEPTION HELD IN IDAHO STATE HOUSE

BOISE, Jan. 6. (AP)—With pageantry that smacked almost of colonial times hundreds of Idaho citizens were received by their governor and other state officials and by retiring officers tonight.

Headed by a military escort and with the soft notes of stringed orchestras sifting through the corridors, state officials and their ladies marched into an enclosure on the main floor of the state house and began greeting a long line of visitors, many of whom had stood in the hallways for more than an hour.

Near the head of the line was the new governor, C. Ben Ross, with Mrs. Ross. Farther along was the retiring governor, H. C. Baldridge, and Mrs. Baldridge.

The state house floors were almost a forest, so thickly were placed cut pines and forest wreaths.

At the close of the reception, the retiring and incoming state house officials and members of the legislature were guests at an inaugural ball in the ball room of the Hotel Boise.

THREE KILLED IN NEW YORK CITY TUESDAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 6. (AP)—Three murders—a girl, an elderly business man and a young ex-convict—excited New York today.

Doris Reiling, a girl in her teens, who tended a bakery on Broadway, was killed about 7 a. m. by a blow dealt with such terrific force that it crushed her skull. Late today her foster father, Frederick Reiling, confessed the slaying. Two hours later in Brooklyn Philip Piccatargi, 58, mild of manner and the head of a congenial famill, was shot down in front of a shoe shop by two men. The motive was unknown.

Thomas Diorio, only a few weeks out of Elmira reformatory, was killed apparently for incurring gang displeasure. His body, washed by the steady downpour of the night, lay in a bronx gutter when found today. A bullet had drilled into the back of his head.

STOLE SON'S MONEY.

SEATTLE, Jan. 6. (AP)—Charged with having withdrawn money from the $656 account of his son, Lester, E. C. Mowles faces a grand larceny charge. The money, entrusted to Mowles, was paid Lester in settlement for injuries received in an automobile accident.

HOOVER TALKS TO AUTOMOBILE MEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6. (AP)—Addressing by telephone the National Automobile chamber of commerce, President Hoover said tonight the despondency of some people over the future is not born out by the statistical evidence or prospects in respect to the automobile industry."

Analyzing the automobile production, road building and gasoline consumption during the last year the president said the figures indicated "we have been cheerful in the use of our automobiles."

"I do not assume," he added, "they are being used for transportation to the poor house."

The future of the automobile industry, he said, does not warrant any despondency.

SAY POSTMASTERS PAID FOR POSITIONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6. (AP)—Swift action was promised by the justice department today on charges that an Indiana member of congress had accepted money from four postmasters to obtain their appointments.

Attorney General Mitchel said the facts, as submitted by the postoffice department were in the hands of the criminal division and that if the normal course were followed they would be forwarded to the United States attorney at Indianapolis to be laid before a grand jury.

The congressmen involved remained officially unnamed. All four postmasters lived in the district of Representative Howbottom, defeated by a democratic opponent in the November elections, but neither Mitchell nor officials of the criminal division would say he was implicated.

Initial investigations in the case were instituted at the request of Senators Watson and Robinson and resulted in the dispatch of five postoffice inspectors into the district. Within 10 days the inquiry turned up what the postoffice termed "evidence so conclusive in its character that these postmasters were dismissed."

FRANCE PAYS LAST TRIBUTE TO JOFFRE

Funeral Service to be Held in Notre Dame Cathedral Today.

PARIS, Jan. 6. (AP)—France today paid its last sad homage to the still form of Marshal Joffre as it lay banked by flowers on a catafalque in the chapel of the Echol Militaire.

Tonight, in a plain oak coffin with the simple inscription, "Joseph Joffre, marshal of France, 1852-1931" the body will lie in the cathedral of Notre Dame. Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock the funeral service will be held there.

An impressive cortege will then escort it to the Invalides where the marshal's body will repose in a vault for several months before it is buried in its final resting place at Luvciennes.

All through today, with infinite patience, a great concourse thronged the streets outside the military academy to glimpse France's immortal hero's figure. Among the multitude were many from far provinces.

They waited silently until they were permitted to pass two by two into the chapel.

Once during the afternoon the endless procession was halted while delegations from the American embassy entered by a private door and presented two great wreaths. One, composed entirely of red and pink roses, was inscribed, "American Army." The other, from Ambassador Walter E. Edge, was of carnations, orchids, and red crosses tied with a tricolored ribbon.

The American delegation, clad in full dress uniform, stood with bowed heads and then slowly withdrew.

POLICEMAN HAS 9 NOTCHES IN GUN

CHICAGO, Jan. 6. (AP)—There were nine notches on Police Sergeant Frank J. Reynolds' pistol today. His ninth victim, William Churchill, a negro who fired on a pursuing police squad, died in a prison hospital last night.

Reynolds was officially credited with killing eight men in the course of duty although his comrades said the number should have been ten.

Dispensed Liquor in Order to Trap Policemen, He Tells House.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6. (AP)—A charge that a "government-owned speakeasy figured in a federal prohibition case that recently resulted in conviction of six Indianapolis policemen was made in the house today by Representative Linthicum of Maryland and anti-prohibitionist.

Prohibition Director Woodcock informed Linthicum by letter the latter said that the government paid rent on a room which the representative described as a "speakeasy."

The letter from Woodcock asserted that "no liquor was dispensed" in the room.

A letter from Russell B. Harrison of Indianapolis, son of the former president, also read into the records by Linthicum, said:

"I am informed . . . . that you are in the lead of congressmen attacking the government's method of establishing a pool room speakeasy and buying and selling booze in order to trap the policemen of this city.

Methods Repugnant.

"The method used is so repugnant and contrary to the spirit of the American institutions that I do hope that congress will enact some new legislation or change the old legislation in such a way that government liquor entanglement with booze joints will be forever eliminated."

Linthicum said he had received many letters containing the open charge that "the prohibition operators had deliberately set about to build up a sensational police scandal by the establishment of a speakeasy in that city."

Open Speakeasy.

"As a first step in the building up of their case," he continued, "two prohibition agents sent into Indianapolis from Chicago opened a liquor dispensing establishment at 1213 East 22nd street. Government funds were used to finance this venture which was obviously operated solely as a place of entrapment. Horace Lyle, a negro informer, was in charge of this government owned speakeasy and the two federal agents supplied liquor through dealing with one Taylor, a notorious bootlegger who vanished before the trial. Another informer, one Henderson, was at the time a fugitive from justice."

Reading from the Woodcock letter Linthicum said:

"The records show the allowance of a small sum of money for rental of this particular room, which payment, I am informed, is entirely lawful. A place for making such contacts is apparently necessary in the development of these cases of conspiracy between public officials and those who violate the law. You may rest assured they will never be used as places in which the law itself is violated."

Many Complaints.

Woodcock's letter said the case grew out of numerous complaints of collusion between the police and operators of speakeasies. One Walter Henderson, he said, was "employed as a special agent for a time but that his services for the prohibition bureau ended last November 14."

"Whether he has ever been convicted of a crime," Woodcock added, "I do not know."

Referring to Linthicum's previous charges that officers were "positively persuaded and enticed into the crime for which they were later indicted and that the evidence against them was testimony of the federal operatives who were in fact their accomplices," Woodcock continued.:

"Some of the testimony against the police was undoubtedly that of the federal operatives who were engaged in securing evidence. I have no information nor do the files disclose that any evidence was secured against them by unlawful methods."

CHINESE WOMAN IS LIFTED HIGHER

NANKING, Jan. 6. (AP)—Equality of men and women in this country is provided by a law which has passed the legislative council.

The law, incorporated in the civil code, is primarily to elevate the women of the country to the same position as that enjoyed by the western world. It is known as the law of family relations.

The old theory that women were of little or no use other than to bear children and that girl babies had no place in the proper pattern of Chinese life has been discarded.

The concubine is disproved of the right to share in her master's estate and divorce laws are changed. Under the old law, it was much easier for a husband to obtain a divorce than a wife.

Under the new law the grounds are the same in both cases. A Chinese husband has been placed n the same position as the American and European husband. A concubine is likely to cost him his home and family.

HOUSE HAS DEAF EAR FOR FOOD LOAN PROPOSAL

Mark Time on Drought Appropriation; Red Cross Chairman Denies Food Riot Report.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6. (AP)—Turning a deaf ear to new demands for federal food loans the house today gave a mark time order to the $45,000,000 drought appropriation and its $15,000,000 food provision.

As the calls went up for help to feed the hungry lest further demonstrations occur like that in Arkansas the administrative position against federal food aid was receiving support before the senate appropriations committee by John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross.

In another quarter Secretary Mellon questioned the constitutionality of proposals to suspend foreclosure proceedings by federal land banks in drought areas.

Lay Aside Measure.

The house laid aside the drought appropriation temporarily when Representative Garner (Dem., Tex.) refused to agree to a proposal by Representative LaGuardia, (Rep., N. Y.) that food loans be permitted in cities as well as drought areas. The measure will be brought up under another parliamentary procedure soon, if in the meantime the leaders have not incorporated the $45,000,000 fund minus the food loan provision in an emergency deficiency bill.

Payne told the senate committee at the opening of hearings into the unemployment and drought situations that the Red Cross was meeting all calls for help in the drought area and could continue to meet them from its present emergency fund.

Denies Food Riot.

He denied that a food riot had occurred last Saturday at England, Ark., and said there was money to supply the needs of the hungry and that 500 persons had been quietly fed last Saturday "when about 40 men came in with some excitement and demanded food." He said there was no explanation why the 40 had not asked for help at Red Cross headquarters.

Meanwhile in the senate two democrats, Thomas of Oklahoma and Heflin of Alabama, talked of "near revolutions" as they demanded additional federal help beyond that recommended by the administration.

Thomas had read in the senate telegrams from Oklahoma City newspapers saying food riots might occur in any one of a dozen Oklahoma counties and that they believed great need was apparent in other states.

Heflin said he was ready to join a filibuster in the senate to force approval of the $15,000,000 food loan appropriation.

Bolstered by the outspoken confidence of the Red Cross chairman administrative leaders in both the senate and house were prepared to fight the $15,000,000 fund.

ITALIAN PLANES MAKE OCEAN TRIP

10 of Original 12 Safe at Natal, Brazil; Two Forced Down on Sea.

NATAL, Brazil, Jan. 6. (AP)—Ten great Italian seaplanes roared down into the harbor here today between 4:15 and 4:30 o'clock, completing one of the most ambitious aviation projects ever attempted.

An even dozen ships left Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, early this morning, but one was forced to come down on the sea early in the flight and another had a similar misfortune much later near St. Paul's Rock, just off the Brazilian coast.

Both were taken safely in charge by Italian naval vessels, twelve of which were on the course as a precautionary measure. After arriving here General Italo Balbo, Italian air minister and commander of the exploit, ordered the disabled planes brought to Fernando do Noronha, the Brazilian penal island, not far off the coast.

SHOOT FOR FOOD.

ENUMCLAW, Jan. 6. (AP)—Jack Vanderburg, P. D. Noble and Arthur Steel, who said they had been jobless for several weeks and admitted shooting two deer out of season to feed their families, were given 90-day suspended sentences.

CALLAHAN PROPOSES STATE PRISON CODE

Would Have Three Experts on Commission; To Introduce Bill.

BOISE, Jan. 6. (AP)—Legislation which he hopes will solve the problem of parole and pardon administration was proposed today by Senator Donald A. Callahan of Shoshone county.

Senator Callahan said he planned to introduce a bill that would put three experts on the present board. These with the governor and the secretary of state would replace the present board composed of the governor, attorney general and secretary of state.

Although he conceded that the elective officers now on the board "give it their best efforts" Senator Callahan said they were elected for reasons "quite apart" from their knowledge of criminal and prison conditions.

Encourage Prisoners.

Moreover, he said his plan would insure continuity of policy as the three experts would be appointed for long terms. He thinks the new plan would encourage prisoners to seek credits for good conduct.

House and senate decided to continue the proceedure of last year in hiring attorneys to draft bills. W. D. Gillis, who recently left office as attorney general was retained by the house at $1000 for the session, the salary that was paid Frank L. Stephan, two years ago when he also quit as attorney general. The senate has not made a selection.

Members were asked to express their preferences for committee assignments in the house to expedite preliminary matters of printing and rules and order of business these committees were appointed from the chair. Allan C. McDonald of Nez Perce county was appointed chairman of the house printing committee and E. T. Taylor, Kootenai, chairman of the committee on rules and order of business. Both republicans and democratic members were also named.

Four Women in House.

The voices of four feminine legislators, the first to be heard in Idaho legislative chambers in many years responded to roll call in the house this session.

All are representatives, two are republicans and all are from south Idaho. They are Mrs. Emma Yearian, Lemhi county, Idaho's sheep queen; Mrs. Emma Glouchek, Twin Falls, welfare worker, republican; Mrs. Maude Cosho, Ada county, hotel manager, and Mrs. Myrtle Bernard, Canyon, politician, democrats.

Mrs. Yearian, mother of a large family, nationally known—perhaps internationally—is the most successful woman operator of a sheep business in the country.

BELIEVE HUSBAND SACRIFICED WIFE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6. (AP)—Police expressed belief today that Mrs. Rina Hugo, 28, mother of two small children, shot to death with Louis White last Saturday by her husband, Frank Hugo, 35, former vaudeville musician, was sacrificed to the furtherance of Hugo's alleged liquor running activities.

In spite of Hugo's insistent assertions that he shot his wife and White because he found them together in his home, police say they have learned Hugo wanted White to die for "squealing" on Hugo and endangering the latter's bootlegging proclivities.

Police declared Hugo lured White to his home using Mrs. Hugo as "bait" setting the stage for a killing in the name of the unwritten law.

ICEBERGS CARRIES FISHERMEN TO SEA

ASTRAKHAN, U. S. S. R., Jan. 6. (AP)—Rescue parties were mobilized today to save the lives of 50 fishermen and their horses who were carried out to the Caspian sea yesterday when a huge mass of ice on which they were fishing broke loose from shore.

A storm which was blowing at the time broke off the huge berg and carried it far from the shore upon the dangerous waters. Steamers and aeroplanes have been dispatched from Astrakhan, Makhatchkala and Banku to aid them.

GOVERNOR ROSS RECOMMENDS DIRECT PRIMARY LAW IN HIS STATE LEGISLATURE MESSAGE

Also Favors Passage of Income Tax Law and Law Providing Election of Judges on Non-Partisan Ballot; Would Trim Supreme Court From Five to Three Members, Reduce Utilities Commission

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 5. (AP)—Governor C. Ben Ross delivered his message to the Idaho legislature today recommending passage of a direct primary law, an income tax law, and a law providing for election of judges on a non-partisan ballot.

The message, although comparatively brief, contained recommendations for three constitutional amendments, trimming the supreme court from five to three members with increased salaries, and reduction of the public utilities commission from three to one member with increased salary.

At the same time the newly installed chief executive found time to plead for full support in his administration from republican and demoeratic voters, legislators and officials.

"The political campaign for 1930 is a closed chapter," he said. "The people have spoken and their decision is final and the rancor of the recent conflict is at an end and there remains before us the solemn duty of giving the state of Idaho, without personal or political consideration, the very best service we are capable of performing.

For Best Interests of State.

"Standing practically alone as I do among the elected state officials as a representative of my party, I certainly do not intend to enter upon the duties of the office of chief executive of this great state with any partisan feeling or purpose. What I recommend I believe with the utmost faith to be in the best interests of this great state."

He took up various subjects in order after listing agriculture, transportation, mining, lumbering and power as the most important industries.

For benefit of agriculture he recommended reciprocity between the Pacific coast states and Idaho through better transportation facilities. Weed control and eradication of insect pests should be brought about, he said, through cooperation with the federal government.

He urged construction of additional transportation facilities that will expedite trade with the Pacific northwest and the orient.

Untold mineral wealth in the state should be exposed, he said, through encouragement to the prospector and to those developing new mineral deposits.

Noting that the lumber industry is in distress, he recommended a "small additional appropriation" to the University of Idaho to study the possibility of manufacturing by-products which may rehabilitate the industry.

Taking cognizance of a supreme court ruling which prevents municipalities installing power plants which involve payments over the constitutional limit of one year except by bonding, he recommended amending the constitution to permit this "without the necessity of submitting the matter to a vote of the qualified electors or of issuing bonds for such purpose."

Income Tax Recommended.

He recommended enactment of an nicome tax to relieve real property of part of the tax burden. "This method of taxation has been adopted by a great many states and will no doubt reach a class of taxpayers who have not in the past carried their just proportion of the burdens of taxation in Idaho."

He further recommended an amendment to give the legislature wider power in the classification of the property of the state for taxation purposes.

A commission of five men should be appointed, he said, to study the taxation situation so that it may "recommend to the next legislature a tax law that will reach all the property of the state, . . . giving us a wider distribution of the tax burden."

He insisted the educational standards must be maintained in the schools but urged "strictest economy possible."

After calling attention of the legislature to needs of state penal and charitable institutions, he suggested particularly an investigation of the needs of the insane asylum at Blackfoot and the Lava Hot Springs health resort.

Demand for Primary Shown.

Demand of the people for a direct state-wide primary, he said, was shown in the election. Assailing the present convention system, he declared it "has been demonstrated by recent nominations for state offices in the convention system that the popular will of the people can be thwarted. The right of the voters to make their own nominations should not be taken from them."

Elimination of that part of the present registration law requiring voters to definitely state their political affiliations at the time of registration was recommended. He also urged amend-

ALLEGED SLAYER IS RUN TO EARTH

Warren Wilkins Arrested in Sacramento; Wanted in Spokane.

SPOKANE, Jan. 6. (AP)—Falling into the trap laid by the police here Warren Wilkins, 24, ex-convict, suspected of the murder of Henry G. Anderson, 53, at his drug store, December 18 was arrested by police in Sacramento, Calif., today.

Mary Leary, alias Mrs. Jerry Allen, 20, and Ruth Thompson, alias Kelsey, 24, also were arrested and held in jail for police here. They were picked up in a hotel where the Spokane police believed they would go last Sunday.

The car in which Wilkins and the two women fled December 22, was found at Marysville, Calif., where it had been abandoned after it broke down. They traveled by bus to the California capital.

Detectives W. J. Hudson and Harry Alderson were instructed tonight to leave for California immediately by automobile. Papers for extraditing Wilkins will be rushed to Olympia and then to Sacramento.

GANG LEADER IS KILLED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Jan. 6. (AP)—Half-world guns flashed again tonight in the shadows of "Little Italy" and cut down Patsy Tardi, seventh leader of the "42" gang to die at the hands of enemies. The same fusillade sent a companion, Ralph Costanza, to a hospital dying.

Tardi, held five days as a suspect in last summer's killing of Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter, was walking along Polk street near the buildings of Hull house where Jane Addams teaches good citizenship. Suddenly, according to Costanza's story, several men ran toward them from behind and opened fire.

Tardi fell, shot twice through the head and killed outright.

Costanza, he related, crawled to a hospital where he was found on the doorstep. Police doubt though that he reached the hospital unaided as it is almost five blocks away.

"Intra-gang rivalry," police said. Six other "42" gang chieftains have been shot down they recalled and there have been whisperings of discontent with Tardi's leadership. Authorities were not inclined to think the killing was a sequel to the Lingle assassination.

QUAKE IS FELT IN SOUTH IDAHO

McCALL, Idaho, Jan. 6. (AP)—A light earthquake, which rattled windows and tipped over a coffee percolator in one home, shook this section about 2 o'clock today.

The shock was felt at Council, 25 miles southwest of here and at Donnelly, 15 miles south of McCall, and across a ridge of mountains from Donnelly.

It lasted about one minute. The quake recalled a period in 1913 when tremors shook the section intermittently for over a period of 15 days, often causing guests to flee from hotels.

FIRE DESTROYS PLANT.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 6. (AP)—Fire destroyed the plant of the Cavac corporation here last night. The company manufactured chassis for radios. Two hundred and fifty persons were thrown out of work.

Governor Stresses White Metal Need

George H. Dern of Utah Says That Delusion of Dumping Silver Will Bring Back Prosperity.

Silver and its importance to the world of finance and commerce was discussed by Gov. George H. Dern before the delegates of the Pacific Coast Economic conference at the Hotel Utah this week, says the Western Mineral Survey. In concluding his address, Governor Dern quoted Senator Pittman as follows

"The immediate remedy for this cause of world depression is simple. Let the powers of the world, led by the United States, persuade the British government for India to desist from the destructive policy of dumping silver, and silver will undoubtedly be restored to its original price of around 64 cents an ounce.

"Let it be remembered that 64 cents an ounce is not an exchange ratio of 16 to 1, but represents a value of about one-thirty-second that of gold, or about 31 to 1. It is not even the exchange price of silver coins in the United States or in any other country using silver coins."

Pertinent Facts.

"The argument," he continued, "that silver has declined because of overproduction is fallacious. Production figures show that the output of silver has not increased as rapidly as trade expansion warranted, or as fast as other metals or commodities. Moreover, consumption has kept pace with production, although at falling prices during the past few years.

"The recent fall in silver, was, of course, due to an excess of supply over demand. The excess supply was partly due to an increased mine production in 1929, but more particularly to the sale of old silver held by governments."

Blames Dumping.

He explained that the silver decline started with the dumping of the white metal on world markets by India, after the British government had put that country on a gold basis.

Governor Dern quoted President Hoover and Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan and company, as saying that one of the chief causes of the world depression is the scarcity of gold and the depressed price of silver.

He also quoted Julius H. Barnes, an eminent financial authority, as follows: "A price of silver which fluctuated from $1.45 some few years ago to 35 cents today, and yet symbolizes the credit and resources of great peoples, could not but harm the business structure of the world."

Drop in Trade.

Governor Dern said it was rather significant that the decline in the price of silver has been proportionate to the drop in Oriental trade. As a result, America's surplus has piled up, the people of China and India are in want, and a commerce which was once mutually profitable to Orient and Occident, has been cut in half.

"Our Oriental trade in 1929," Governor Dern continued, "had developed into a two-billion dollar enterprise. In the first five months of this year there was a drop of more than $70,000,000 in our exports to Asia. India's imports were $82,000,000 in January, and $45,000,000 in July. The slump in China was even greater. In these two countries decreased purchasing power has been most marked, and it is noteworthy that these two countries are the largest silver users in the world. They consumed over 70 per cent of the world production of silver in 1928."

NEW YORK, Jan. 6. (AP)—With the exception of one setback which scarcely lasted through the first hour the stock market made steady progress today.

It was a slow advance but it gained momentum during the afternoon and the favorite industrials were up a point or two net. Rails made a better showing and there was group strength in such other subdivisions as the foods, coppers, tobaccos, motion pictures and chemicals. The activity was centered chiefly on the rally though sales totaled only 1,906,610 shares.

Overnight selling orders were executed at concessions amounting to not much more than a point. Shorts who extended their commitments, still ran against the stone wall of dullness and retraced their steps by covering. This movement erased the losses and the market climbed slowly.

SPOKANE STOCKS

TREND UNCERTAIN IN MINING STOCKS

There was still no definite trend on the Standard stock exchange, Spokane, Tuesday, despite the fact that further reduction in the price of silver tended to drop the bottom out of silver issues. Seven issues showed gains and seven were lower.

Dayrock made the most pronounced gain, advancing 10 cents on the call, with Douglas, Constitution, Montana Mines, Sidney and Tamarack also gaining. Hecla slipped 50 cents, and Sunshine was 13 cents lower. Golconda, Grandview, Jack Waite, Mexican Premier, Noble Five were other issues which "hit the toboggan."

Promising Outlook In Mining Industry

Leading Producers in Various Fields Tell of Progress and Work Being Done at Present Time.

WASHINGTON, D. C. —A promising outlook for the various branches of the producing mineral industries is taken by leading operators in these fields. A symposium of their views is given in the January "Mining Congress Journal," covering the copper and other minerals of Arizona, metal mining in Utah, the anthracite coal industry of Pennsylvania, and the bituminous coal industry of the Southern Appalachain region and of Iowa.

Charles F. Willis, editor of the "Mining Journal" of Phoenix, states that "Arizona mines have been adjusting themselves to the newer industrial conditions and preparing to meet future competition in order that the state may retain its position of leadership in the copper producing industry."

Referring to expansion of activities of the Phelps Dodge corporation in the Arizona copper regions, Mr. Willis says negotiations are in progress for a merger of its properties and those of the Calumet and Arizona Mining company near Bisbee, which if consummated will bring about further economies in the production of 425,000,000 pounds of copper annually. By recent acquisition of the Nichols Copper company, and the National Electric company, the Phelps Dodge corporation now has facilities for the handling of copper from the mine to the consumer.

Many Changes.

The company has made numerous changes at its properties, including the following: Transfer of the Sacramento Hill open-pit to underground handling; installation of a natural gas pipe line from El Paso to smelters at Douglas and Clifton; preparation for mining on a large scale of a clay ore body at Morenci containing 245,000,000 tons of copper ore averaging one per cent copper; remodeling and rehabilitation of plants and mechanical units to improve efficiency; $1,000,000 improvement program at the smelter at Douglas consisting principally of a remodeling of the bedding and crushing plants and the building of a new anode copper plant.

Mr. Willis states that there has been much activity in seeking new gold properties in Arizona "which bids fair to increase the importance of the state as a gold producer."

To enable Arizona copper mines to compete with the product of foreign mines which have cheaper labor and other costs, Mr. Willis says "a copper tariff will eventually be necessary or wages must come down, and freight rates reduced."

"Arizona copper mines are facing 1931 on a readjusted basis, fitted into conditions as they exist, cognizant of problems facing them, production scaled down to fit the world demands, costs maintained even though they are on a 60 per cent production schedule, and are better able to make a proper showing than can be done during the period of readjustment," concludes Mr. Willis.

Much Development.

A. G. Mackenzie, of Salt Lake City, secretary of the Utah chapter of the American Mining Congress says considerable development and construction work has been conducted by old and new mining companies in Utah, making it possible to employ more labor than would have been used had operations been restricted to production. The Utah Copper company, which curtailed production heavily, adopted a part-time schedule which enabled it to provide from 70 to 100 per cent employment to a force slightly reduced in number from that employed in 1929. This and other plans designed to meet the situation were employed as far as practicable by other companies.

Some of the companies maintained dividend payments, although at reduced rates, and paid in part from reserves. The Eureka Standard Mining company, a new gold producer of the Tintic district, entered the dividend list.

Progress in mechanized mining is discussed by R. V. Clay and O. G. Sharrer. Mr. Clay speaks of the adoption of mechanical mining at mines of the Hanna Coal company, in southeastern Ohio and Mr. Sharrer, who is mine superintendent of the Union Pacific Coal company at Hanna, Wyo., discusses recent development in mechanical loading on pitching seams.

Mechanical Mining.

Mr. Clay states that mechanical mining was decided upon in 1928, due to the fall in the price of coal and lower wage competition. Instead of cutting wages, the company obtained lower operating costs by introducing mechanical mining methods. As mechanical cleaning plants are installed the company will substitute mechanical loading machines with crews for 30 loaders in a section by which it expects to make a further reduction in operating costs.

Mr. Sharrer states that mechanical loading has developed a technique of its own, the systems are permanent and its progress can be prophesied. "Many problems of mine mechanization are similar in all fields and machines are being developed to meet almost all conditions of mining," says Mr. Sharrer. "Underground progress has been so rapid that shop and surface practices have been left in the rear. The greatest economies will probably be obtained in the future from a rationalization of surface practice rather than through any startling innovations underground."

VOICE HAS POWER

"The voice of the people is heard," but more attention is paid to the voice of Senator Baker of Custer county in the Idaho legislature than any other voice in the state at this time as he has the power to make party votes tie by his vote.

A HERD OF YOUNG MEN

"Boys will be boys," pleaded the lawyer representing 47 New York college students who had crashed a theatre after a class dinner. In their playful way they had whooped into the place, stood the doorman on his head, fired chemical bombs and squirted ammonia around, scaring and discommoding the audience.

The judge wasn't impressed with the plea. "Perhaps youth should have its fling," he said, "but there should be a limit to that fling." He seemed to feel that boys might tone down their boyishness along about the sophomore year. So they had a little taste of jail and moderate fines to pay.

The students themselves excused their pranks as the result of "mob psychology" and "herd instinct." Even this highbrow defense of lowbrow conduct didn't soften the judge's heart. He actually thought that young men with their educational opportunities ought to have enough individual strength of character to resist mob motives and herd action.

BY HOWARD ROCKEY — A ROMANCE OF RADIO

Masked Longing

SYNOPSIS: Aileen Gray is indirectly the victim of the jealousy of her younger sister, Vivienne, an artist's model. Aileen wins a star part in a new Broadway musical show with the help of Jimmy Crane, a press agent, who loves her. Dwight Channing, the artist who employs Vivienne, gives a party in Aileen's honor in his studio. Vivienne chafing under the necessity of playing second fiddle, recklessly takes a dare to bathe in the fountain. Aileen, trying to stop her crashes through a glass door, and her face is permanently disfigured. She has to retire from the stage, and wear a silk mask to conceal her scars. Vivienne must now shoulder the burden of supporting Aileen as well as herself.

Chapter 14
TEMPTATION

VIVIENNE sat on the model's dais in Channing's studio, watching him work on the paintings that soon were to decorate Arnold Kronberg's new movie theater. They were almost finished. What would she do when Channing no longer needed her services?

The house-phone rang. Channing went to answer it. "All right!" he snapped. Then he turned to Vivienne. "You'd better slip on something. Arnold Kronberg is downstairs—and he's coming up."

Channing presented his caller. "Am I right in assuming that you are Mr. Channing's model?" He smiled.

Vivienne nodded.

"I've just thought of a rather good idea." He turned to Channing. "For the night when my theater opens we might arrange—a personal appearance. Both of you on the stage—just as you are at this moment."

"Sorry!" Channing shook his head. "But I'm not a performing dog."

"Oh, really, you mustn't!" Kronberg arose. Vivienne caught an angry glint in his keen gray eyes.

"Mademoiselle, I kiss your hand!" He did, with a courtly gesture. "If Mademoiselle should like my idea—I hope she will call me up. I suppose Mr. Channing would not mind—so long as he does not appear?"

"Naturally not."

Vivienne was thinking hard. She had never seen Arnold Kronberg before, but she knew him by reputation.

"Well?" said Channing when Kronberg was gone.

"Well what?" Vivienne said.

"Just that." Channing's eyes narrowed.

"I might do worse—than take him up—"

"Much worse." Channing mused. "Granting that you're interested in a contract of that sort." There was no mistaking his meaning. It stirred Vivienne's anger.

"Why would it be any different—posing in his theatre—or posing here for you"

"I'm not Arnold Kronberg. I've tried to make that clear."

"Oh, rot!" she flared. "He can't be as bad—"

"Not as he's painted, no. But once you link your name with his yo 'll lose the reputation you've already jeopardized—"

"By coming here to you! How deliciously funny, Dwight."

"Look here. If I didn't like you—a lot—I'd mind my own business. You'll probably tell me to mind anyway, but that's all right with me. Twice, since you've been coming here—you've stirred up something—unpleasant. One incident resulted—in something you can't undo."

She winced and looked away.

"If you're not careful," he went on, "you'll start something else before long."

"That's silly!" she said. "You know, and everyone else knows—"

"Knows what?" he asked her bluntly. "Bruce Burns associated you with the girl I'm supposed to be—dressing after that broad hint in Tattle Tales. So does everyone who knows us. Don't you imagine Arnold Kronberg is a reader of the dirty sheet?"

"Suppose he is? Does that darned story make me—?"

"No, but it makes people think you are. And if they think so long enough—you might just as well be."

She was wishing he would not look at her in quite the way he did. She pulled the robe about her.

"Viv, you gave that story to the girl who put it in. You did it because you wanted to be talked about. If it's any satisfaction to you, you did a good job."

"O-oh!" She buried her face in her hands.

"What made you do it, I can't figure out. Can't you see what you're courting by keeping on like this?"

Dry-eyed, she looked up suddenly. "Suppose I do see?" she flung at him. "What if I know what I'm doing—what if I don't care? Oh, you're right that I've made a fool of myself. You're right, I suppose, that people believe I'm what you're so sure I'm going to be after what I've done. Well, what else am I going to do? I've got to live—and support Aileen. How am I to do it?"

She hurled the porcelain at Channing.

Channing did not answer.

"Well?" She twitched her shoulders and assumed a pose. "Just what is the answer—If I have to tell you? I don't propose to slave my life away as a waitress, or in an office—where I'd get a stingy salary and every man who saw me would try to date me up! I guess I have some intelligence, but I haven't any fitness for the sort of things that girls can do and earn real money for them. What I have is what you're painting. If copies of me won't pay my bills—I still own the original—If worse comes to worst."

Channing arched his eyebrows. "You're stating an age-old theory," he said, "but you talk like a fool kid."

"Do I?" She stepped closer. "Dwight, suppose I admit that I gave the story to Tattle Tales—well because I wanted—it to be the truth?"

"I shouldn't believe you," he answered.

"Don't you—care for me—a little? You said you cared—a lot."

"Not in that way."

Like some savage fury, Vivienne stood before him—far more alluring than anything he had ever seen. Rage was evident in every line of her trembling body. Darting to the table, she caught up the little figure of herself Channing had given Aileen—one that for obvious reasons, she never wished to see again.

"I hate you! I hate you! I hate you!" She hurled the porcelain at him. It struck the floor at Channing's feet and crashed in a thousand pieces.

COUNTY PLOW BRINGS STALLED CARS HERE

Crew Out More Than Eight Hours Clearing Snow From Montana Highway Near Taft.

After working more than eight hours clearing the road between Lookout and Taft, the crew of the county snow plow returned to Wallace about 12:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, with two automobiles which had been stranded near Taft since Monday night.

The men reported that they experienced no difficulty in clearing the way with the heavy county plow and had little trouble in bringing the machines through the snow that had thwarted efforts of a Wallace wrecking service car Monday night.

The cars were owned by Sam Nelson, Saltese, Mont., formerly of Wallace, and J. F. Gardner, Walla Walla, Wash. The gears in both machines were stripped because of the hard going and the axle of the Gardner automobile was broken.

Two more machines were stalled near Taft in attempting to make the trip from Wallace to Missoula, the county men reported. The county plow made the trip as part of an agreement made between Idaho and Montana at the opening of the winter to keep the Montana side of Lookout summit open as far as Saltese.

The state highway department will send a crew out Wednesday to work on the road between Taft and Saltese.

HAVE FUNDS FOR GLACIER HIGHWAY

GLACIER PARK, Mont.—The appropriation bill for the department of the interior recently reported to congress contains items for construction work in Glacier National park which Superintendent J. R. Eakin announces will greatly help in reducing unemployment in this section of Montana.

One item alone, $810,000 provides the necessary money for the completion of the Transmountain Automobile highway which will open what many declare is to be the most scenic roadway across the Continental divide, connecting the eastern and western gateways of Glacier National park.

Work on this project has been underway several years. The contract to be let next spring that will stipulate this highway must be completed in two years.

"The road oiling program will be continued and the main traveled trails will also be oiled," Superintendent Eakin says. "Existing trails will be rebuilt. Construction of fire trails will be speeded up. Two new fire lookout buildings and a new ranger station at Blacktail, on the south-eastern boundary of the park, will be constructed. Naturalist activities will be enlarged. Additional equipment for maintenance of roads will be purchased and maintenance funds are to be increased. During the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1931, Glacier National park will have one of the most constructive programs since its creation."
